A founder member of DAF, Deborah has been the Festival press officer for the past five years, drawing on her professional background in local journalism and PR to help put DAF on the map! She has enjoyed the challenge of attracting local and national media coverage as DAF has gone from strength to strength.

Having lived in Didsbury for nearly 20 years, Deborah loves the opportunities it provides for creativity and enjoyment of the arts. She is a member of two choirs and a local theatre group. She also has a keen interest in writing and has recently published academic articles in the field of children's literature. She looks forward to continuing to support this unique celebration of local people, places and artistic talent.
